

Center for Immigration Studies

Student Visa Fraud

"[A]ll higher education immigration fraud, through the massive F-1 visa program, is divided into three parts:

- 1. There are the individual students who drop out of legitimate universities to become illegal aliens on their own;*
- 2. There are visa mills which are distinctly illegitimate establishments; they recruit would-be illegal aliens, and, in effect, charge them substantial fees for their F-1 visas; or they operate marginal operations more keyed to profits than to education; and*
- 3. There are more rarely, or more rarely caught, employees of legitimate universities who misuse their positions to facilitate the conversion of legitimate foreign students into illegal aliens."*

- David North, CIS Fellow

Content type	Publication Type	Author
- Any -	Choose some options	Choose some options	Apply

EB-5, Immigration Fraud, and a Visa Mill — All in One Court Case!

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud, National Security, EB-5 Permanent Investor Visa Program

Silicon Valley University, a Visa Mill, Loses State License, but DHS Doesn't Notice

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud, Education and Foreign Students

How Some Chinese Students with Little English Get Admitted to U.S. Colleges

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud, Education and Foreign Students

If You Want a Lot of Cash, Don't Rob a Bank, Open a Visa Mill!

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Higher Education Fraud Comes in Two Different Packages, Part 1

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Here's a New Way to Abuse the Foreign Student Visa

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Visa Mill Terminated, but OPT Subsidies to Hire Aliens Persist for Years

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Virginia Terminates a Visa Mill while DHS Watches from the Sidelines

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Executive of Embattled Falls Church Visa Mill Pleaded Guilty to Visa Fraud

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud, Education and Foreign Students

DHS Allows F-1 Visas for Students Going to Ghost Colleges

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Center for Immigration Studies

Student Visa Fraud

"[A]ll higher education immigration fraud, through the massive F-1 visa program, is divided into three parts:

- 1. There are the individual students who drop out of legitimate universities to become illegal aliens on their own;*
- 2. There are visa mills which are distinctly illegitimate establishments; they recruit would-be illegal aliens, and, in effect, charge them substantial fees for their F-1 visas; or they operate marginal operations more keyed to profits than to education; and*
- 3. There are more rarely, or more rarely caught, employees of legitimate universities who misuse their positions to facilitate the conversion of legitimate foreign students into illegal aliens."*

- David North, CIS Fellow

Content type	Publication Type	Author
- Any -	▼ Choose some options	Choose some options	Apply

EB-5, Immigration Fraud, and a Visa Mill — All in One Court Case!

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud, National Security, EB-5 Permanent Investor Visa Program

Silicon Valley University, a Visa Mill, Loses State License, but DHS Doesn't Notice

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud, Education and Foreign Students

How Some Chinese Students with Little English Get Admitted to U.S. Colleges

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud, Education and Foreign Students

If You Want a Lot of Cash, Don't Rob a Bank, Open a Visa Mill!

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Higher Education Fraud Comes in Two Different Packages, Part 1

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Here's a New Way to Abuse the Foreign Student Visa

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Visa Mill Terminated, but OPT Subsidies to Hire Aliens Persist for Years

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Virginia Terminates a Visa Mill while DHS Watches from the Sidelines

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud

Executive of Embattled Falls Church Visa Mill Pleaded Guilty to Visa Fraud

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud, Education and Foreign Students

DHS Allows F-1 Visas for Students Going to Ghost Colleges

Blog

Topics: Student Visa Fraud